Happy New Year!

Here's to the future of EVRWP and your future too!

Lots of great things are in store! We are excited, and let this be the year that we take our state and our country back. I am especially excited about our special lunch coming this February with none other than Tyrus! I think he will warm our hearts with his antics and great showmanship. We also have the incredible Kari Lake on the February 5th, our regular meeting day.

Look for a terrific event on February 16th with Carl Di Maio for BBQ, Beer & Ballots at headquarters. We will be collecting ballots and will make it a party.

Lets work hard for Congressman Calvert as his is a seat we cannot lose. Ask yourself what you can do for his re-election and then let us know what it is!

Looking forward we will need support from you as we are challenged in 2024! Please don't get discouraged and fight! It will take a village to change what has happened but you must know that we are up to the challenge!

Love to all of you from all of us who are here at EVRWP!

THANK YOU TO ALL FOR YOUR DONATIONS AND ACTIONS IN TAKING BACK OUR STATE AND COUNTRY!

PLEASE DON'T STOP THERE. WE NEED YOUR DOLLARS TO CONTINUE ON.

Donations are easy. You can use the donation button that appears in this newsletter next to these words. Just put your phone camera over the scan and it will come up. You can then donate.

Take Action Committee (TAC) Book Recommendations

RECOMMENDATION #1 – Letter to the American Church by Eric Metaxas

Our guest speaker for TAC’s December 19 meeting was area resident Tim Marinec who related his experiences as a businessman in Russia and then discussed Letter to the American Church. Mr. Marinec then gave copies of the book to those in attendance. The book compares the American church today to the German church of the 1930’s and 1940’s. The German church chose not to understand the Nazi agenda, to teach their congregations about the evils of the Nazi philosophy, or to confront that evil. They were comfortable and did not want to offend any of their congregants or risk losing their status. As a result, 6 million Jews were murdered. How is the American church of today any different? Marxists are destroying the family by promoting abortion (how many children murdered?), promoting child mutilation (how many kids sacrificed to gender-affirming care?), pulling our children into aberrant behavior (how many kids now identify as LGBTQ?), destroying the rule of law (open borders, defunding police, and J6), destroying our economy (how much have we suffered on the altar of climate change?), and promoting authoritarianism (how many businesses have been destroyed by the COVID debacle, government regulations, and direct attacks on private property), leading us to only two tiers of society - the oligarchs and the poor. These things haven’t just happened. Which is the topic of the next book.

RECOMMENDATION #2 – Hide Your Children by Liz Wheeler

My top recommendation of the year, this book is all you need to know about what has happened to our country, is happening - how, who, when, and why – and what we can do about it. Ms. Wheeler explains the connections and the history of the Marxists’ beliefs and strategies, including critical theory, the attacks on marriage and parents, the sexual revolution, gender theory, climate change crisis, and especially the attacks on children through education leading to a Marxist worldview, LGBTQ grooming and gender-affirming care.

For example, you will learn about Antonio Gramsci, founder of the Italian Communist Party who defied Mussolini and was thrown in prison. From there he wrote his Prison Notebooks, which are quite possibly even more influential than Karl Marx in shaping America’s acceptance of socialism by advocating for the destruction of our cultural institutions. From the book:

According to the Acton Institute, Gramsci believed “Socialism is precisely the religion that must overwhelm Christianity.... In the new order, Socialism will triumph by first capturing the culture via infiltration of schools, universities, churches, and the media by transforming the consciousness of society.”

The Prison Notebooks were translated into English by Joseph Buttigieg, professor of English at Notre Dame University and founder of the Gramsci Society. Recognize the last name? He is also the father of current U.S. secretary of transportation and former mayor of South Bend, Indiana, Pete Buttigieg,

This is one of the many connect-the-dots found in Hide Your Children. The changes in the American society did not just happen - they are connected, and they were planned. We cannot afford to do as the German church did and turn a blind eye. We cannot be too busy or too afraid of what others might think to confront the evil that has every intention of bringing down the America we all love. We must defend her, defend the truth, and defend our families. Know your enemy by reading this book.

Another Trump 2025 edge: A Compliant Congress

If former President Trump wins next year, he'd have much greater power than in his first term — and fewer restraints on carrying out his political agenda. That's thanks to the trifecta of a more compliant cabinet, government workforce — and Congress.

Why it matters: We've shown how Trump would stack his cabinet and government with pre-vetted loyalists. This column is about the third reason he'd be able to move faster to punish enemies and impose his policies: very Trumpy congressional Republicans.

What's happening: Trump, if he wins, will enjoy vigorous backing from the vast majority of GOP leaders and rank-and-file Republicans. His biggest critics will be long gone.

- ◆ Senate Republican Leader Mitch McConnell is 81, has frozen twice on camera, and is loathed by Trump. McConnell has said he'll finish his term as leader, which ends after next year. Then he'll be under pressure to step aside — although he says he'll finish his Senate term, which ends after '26.
- ◆ McConnell's replacement is certain to be more aligned with Trump — and less likely to challenge him the way McConnell has (mostly in private). The intrigue: We've learned that House Speaker Mike Johnson, who has held the gavel for seven weeks, talks regularly with Trump. Johnson, who could remain party leader even if Republicans lose the House (although based on precedent, his fellow Louisianan, Majority Leader Steve Scalise, might get the job), will be more of a Trump enabler than former House Speaker Kevin McCarthy. Yes, McCarthy sucked up to Trump in public. But he also has been known to roll his eyes privately.

Pro-Trump forces have the power to oust Johnson or any leader who doesn't do Trump's bidding. Under the GOP's current rules, all it takes is one Republican to force a vote on removing the speaker. Assuming margins similar to those in the current House, as few as five Republicans could join with all Democrats to oust him. Most of the likely House GOP leaders — including committee chairs or ranking members, depending on whether Republicans keep the majority — are vocal Trump supporters. When Trump took office in 2017, he was dependent on former Speaker Paul Ryan, whose disdain for the president was obvious.

Finally, Trump will benefit greatly from the absence of several of his biggest critics — most notably Sen. Mitt Romney of Utah, who's retiring after '24, and former Rep. Liz Cheney (R-Wyo.), who lost her primary while repeatedly confronting Trump. What they're saying: McCarthy, who's leaving the House at the end of this month, said in an interview that when Trump first came to Washington, "he didn't know the office, and he didn't know the Hill."

"Trump is stronger today politically than he was then," McCarthy told us. "He'll be better prepared: He knows the members personally — who can make things happen, who can deliver. They've been through battle together."

Behind the scenes: At first, very few members knew or trusted Trump, and vice versa. He had a chaotic transition after dumping Chris Christie's months of preparation. Now, most Republican lawmakers are dying to chat him up and curry favor.

The former president has dossiers on newer members — most of whom have begged for his endorsement over the past six years.

What we're hearing: We're told House and Senate Republicans would eagerly dive into a Trump agenda featuring tax cuts, energy security, border crackdowns, pressure on Big Tech, addiction prevention, and the death penalty for human traffickers and drug smugglers. Aid to Ukraine would move to the back burner; support for Israel would move to the front.

They also won't flinch at harder-edge Trump obsessions like immigration raids and retribution against enemies.

Who's who: Trump's enforcer would be House Judiciary Chairman Jim Jordan of Ohio, who talks often with the former president, and won his endorsement to succeed McCarthy as speaker.

Three other House members whose stock would rise: Rep. Elise Stefanik of New York, who turned heads in Trump land with her devastating questioning of the college presidents; Rep. Gary Palmer of Alabama, who's working with Trump's campaign on energy policy; and Rep. Max Miller of Ohio, an aide in Trump's White House.

A trio of GOP senators who'd have a ton of juice with Trump: Sen. J.D. Vance of Ohio, who's such a favorite he could go into the administration; Sen. John Barrasso of Wyoming, the current member of Senate leadership with whom Trump has the best relationship; and Sen. Tom Cotton of Arkansas, a confidant when Trump was in the White House.

The big picture: This is all part of an emerging Trump government-in-waiting that would be much less haphazard than last time, and wired to change the country from Day 1. Trump insiders tell us that although he shows little interest in the mechanics of governing, his team learned from the debacles of his first term. Advisers are systematically getting a machine ready to remake government in ways that couldn't easily be undone. A sign the operation has matured: Trump's team is working with Senate Republicans to help weed out the kind of scandal-plagued candidates who've hobbled the party in the past, Axios' Sophia Cai reports.

As you've seen from this series of "Behind the Curtain" columns: Trump 2.0 would be more disciplined and intentional — with more internal unanimity and more know-how about disrupting moderation and bureaucracy.

What to watch: Regardless of whether Trump wins, Republicans are expected to flip the Senate, given the favorable map. Abortion backlash is the biggest factor that could cost the GOP the Senate.

Democrats are expected to win back the House — although some top Republicans think a Trump win would let them eke out a majority. Even if House Democratic Leader Hakeem Jeffries becomes speaker, he'd likely have a tiny majority, like the one now bedeviling the GOP.

The bottom line: Trump would have a years-long head start with Congress — yet another way he'd leverage the most sophisticated preparation in history by an out-of-power party.

Desert Sands Reimagines Fear to Gaslight Voters and Push New Taxes by Kenny Snell

The Desert Sands Unified School District (DSUSD) has approved a 675- million-dollar bond resolution for the March 5, 2024, ballot. The Resolution, "12/2023-2024: Resolution of the Board of Education of Desert Sands Unified School District Ordering an Election, and Establishing Specifications of the Election Order," was approved by a 5-0 vote. According to the tax rate statement issued by the DSUSD, the total repayment taxpayers will be on the hook for is $1.371 BILLION, $1,371,994,476 to be exact. DSUSD taxpayers, their children, and their grandchildren will be paying on the bonds until at least 2054.

The actual resolution that voters will see on the ballot next March, at this point reads:

"To upgrade classrooms, science labs, career-training facilities, and instructional technology to support college/career readiness in math, science, technology, engineering, arts/skilled trades; safeguard student safety; fix deteriorating roofs, plumbing, electrical, ventilation systems; repair, construct, acquire classrooms, facilities, sites/equipment; shall Desert Sands Unified School District's measure authorizing $675,000,000 in bonds at legal interest but without increasing current tax rates be adopted, levying $60 per $100,000 assessed value ($45,000,000 annually) while bonds are outstanding, with citizen oversight/audits?"

In the actual resolution however, which contains 21 "Whereases," or reasons for the bond, the district seems to make removing/replacing cancer-causing asbestos and lead pipes a major priority. The priorities were gleaned from a district issued survey that asked voters to prioritize the issues. The DSUSD put that question in the survey, with no evidence that asbestos and lead pipes were an issue. Fear.

DSUSD does not specify which schools contain asbestos or lead pipes that carry drinking water. In fact, a search of five years of board agendas does not produce any reports of asbestos or lead pipes in district schools. Going back even further, even the local Gannett News propaganda outlet (The Desert Sun) reported in a March 16, 2016, article that there were no water-carrying lead pipes in the district. The article detailed that while there were lead pipes found in some California schools, none were found in the Coachella Valley.

Water agency officials in the Coachella Valley said they were unaware of any lead service lines in use locally. Still, 98 public water systems in California recorded high lead readings from 2012 through 2015. None of them were in Riverside County.

Thus, the inclusion of "asbestos" and "lead pipes" by the DSUSD in the survey and the bond resolution, seems disingenuous if not downright farmongering, to gain support from voters to place the next generation in debt.

During the bond discussion at the November board meeting, the student board member was the adult in the room, asking how much the bonds would cost. Adam Bauer, a representative of Fieldman, Rolapp & Associates, Inc explained away the student's concerns by stating that, unlike other districts, the DSUSD has a very good credit rating and would only have to repay just over twice the amount of the bonds. Board trustee Michael Duran simplified the issue by equating the $1.375 BILLION voters (and their children) would be on the hook for, to borrowing $50 and having to repay $100. What a deal! Board trustee Humberto Alvarez posited that the bond is not a new tax, it is just continuing what the district already owes. What is new, however, is the $60 per $100,000 that property owners will have to pay. So... a new tax.

Another stated reason for the bonds is a desire for student safety—by adding "security fencing" and "security cameras"—which would seem unnecessary if our southern border was afforded the same accord.

The resolution also claims that DSUSD voters tax rates will not increase, "only extended," yet seems to contradict themselves by stating that the "tax rate levied will not exceed Proposition 39 limits of $60 per $100,000 of assessed value of property."

The board further claims that the bond money will only be used for the stated purposes and in no way will go to teacher or administrator salaries. However, one of the stated purposes is to reduce class sizes. The board does not stipulate how class sizes can be reduced without hiring more teachers.

Digging further down, in exhibit B of the resolution, the DSUSD lists all possible [pet] projects the bond money will be used for. But the list also raises questions as to exactly what the district's intent is, and unintended consequences.

For instance, one stated project is renovating and adding student and staff restrooms. Is the intent to renovate the restrooms in accordance with the woke agenda? i.e. adding tampon machines to boys' restrooms, or even co-ed restroom so that boys pretending to be girls, and girls pretending to be boys can use the same restroom? Given the fact that the DSUSD holds they can keep "gender transitions" a secret from parents, will the parents be notified if that is the case? Additionally, and from personal experience, restrooms on some DSUSD campuses are regularly shut down during the day due to graffiti, illegal activity, or to make monitoring easier for security and administration.

Another woke project is to add EV chargers to campus. Without getting into the discussion of how terrible electric cars are for the environment (search cobalt mining), how exactly would the coordination of on-campus EV charging work? Would students and staff miss instructional minutes when their cars are charged to allow others to miss instructional time to take their turn in the queue?

Another questionable project is "wellness centers," which in woke-speak refers to "safe-spaces" where students encounter activist therapists' intent on adding to the mentally unstable gender transitioning population.

More projects include installing [China enriching] solar panels, building administrative spaces and support facilities, signage and fencing, demolition of unwanted structures, emergency generators, outdoor learning environments, ID cards, laser printers, digital white boards, and a data center. Data center? To collect and store personal student data with the help of Attorney General Merrick Garland's family-owned Panorama education data collection "surveys"? One cannot help but wonder.

The most egregious "Whereas," or reason for the bond, is the whine that the State of California simply does not give the DSUSD enough money. That the board can state this with a straight face after wasting millions upon millions of dollars on DEI indoctrination and Covid "safety" equipment is beyond belief. Keep in mind, California government is controlled by teachers' unions. Check the history of any bad law regarding kids, the handprints of teachers and administrator unions will usually be found.

According to the DSUSD 2020-2021 LCAP annual update (pg. 53), DSUSD spent $2,467,305 on Personal Protective Equipment (PPE), plastic shields, hand sanitizer, cleaning equipment, portable sinks, and equipment to promote social distancing during that time span.

Of course, as some community members tried to tell the district at the time and is proven through hundreds of peer-reviewed studies now, masks (PPE) do not stop a virus, and are even harmful to health. Even the CDC admitted the social distancing propaganda had no rhyme or reason—it just sounded good. Read more here, or just listen to Dr. Anthony Fauci. - <https://brownstone.org/tag/masks/>

WE ARE BROKE – GO SOMEPLACE ELSE

For the third time since the war began in Ukraine, Volodymyr Zelensky, came to Washington, D.C. dressed in his fatigues, to ask for more money. If the world could see he was winning this war, it might be justified. Sadly, that does not appear to be the case. He desperately wants and needs the support of the United States to make it easier to ask other nations for help. To some Republicans on Capitol Hill, we are nothing more than his bank, his financiers, and they are insistent on no more money. To add insult to injury, Biden and military leaders allowed Zelensky, a foreign leader, to meet with our military men enraging even more on Capitol Hill. This event was “a first.” Predictably, Zelensky tried to insert himself and politicized this war to put our men on a guilt trip. He is desperate. He was just refused money from Viktor Orban, the Hungarian Prime Minister, who firmly believes Ukraine is a very corrupt country. This refusal was in spite of the European Union (EU) favoring more money for Ukraine. Zelensky is falling out of favor with more and more of his people and the world is getting weary of giving good money after bad, especially without any accountability. And, the people in the United States wonder “since when are his country’s borders more important than ours?” His country’s borders are his responsibility, and our borders are ours.....

Wouldn’t you like to know what Zelensky knows about the Biden crime family? The allegations of payments to Hunter, money for prostitutes, spies, blackmail operations, money laundering and child trafficking? The US could offer him immunity in exchange for information and he would not need to go back to Ukraine, which could prove to be very dangerous for him. This will not happen, of course.

In the meantime, be proud of the House Republicans. They have finally found their backbone and are holding firm on no new money for Ukraine until we secure our own border. Biden is getting so eager to keep critics and Zelensky happy, it appears as if he is considering reimplementing Title 42, (a public health order implemented under Trump, to allow US authorities to expel migrants quickly back to Mexico). This is an effort to satisfy the Right to get more money for Ukraine. It will not be enough and the Dems are furious that Biden would even consider it.

DID YOU KNOW YOU ARE TOO PATRIOTIC?

Yes, if you equate yourself with MAGA, you love this country too much and you are too patriotic. This is the mantra the Left is now pushing on MSNBC. They have managed to make MAGA a bad word and say Christian Nationalism is the biggest threat to America. That we equate “saving the United States with saving God and we believe if America falls, God himself is defeated.” THIS IS RIDICULOUS! Clearly the Left is using the term MAGA to disparage us and Donald Trump. To them everything Donald J. Trump (DJT) is bad. The Left is desperate and scared. They will say and do anything to stop the MAGA movement. And, believe me, it is a movement. Fortunately, the American people are waking up. We are proud to be associated with the term MAGA because we want to MAKE AMERICA GREAT AGAIN. But, not only in America are people waking up. Recent elections, and/or candidate choices in Argentina, Netherlands, Hungary, New Zealand, Italy, Sweden, South America and Poland are going to populous, Christian, anti-globalists, free-market capitalists. And Ireland, considered by some to be one of the most globalist controlled countries, has a new national hero in conservative, former Ultimate Fighter Championship (UFC) fighter, Conor McGregor. McGregor has been using his fame, money and popularity to fight the influx of foreign illegal immigrants into his country. He has been very outspoken and critical of the government and is demanding change. He has a massive following in his home country and his word carries a lot of weight. There is much talk he could be the next Prime Minister.

On top all of that, in today’s Indio News Update, here is one of the headlines:

Progressive Agenda Stalls in California, Sparking Widespread Frustration.” It goes on to state there is a sense of frustration among left-leaning groups because they have seen a notable stall in the advancement of progressive policies, leading to widespread dissatisfaction among advocates. They have expressed disappointment over failure to implement policies such as universal healthcare, comprehensive family income support and higher education reforms. They have made little progress in actualizing their social and economic egalitarianism (meaning everyone is equal in all things and deserve equal treatment). While everyone WAS created equal, we all know not everyone lives, works and acts equally, therefore not everyone should be treated equally. For example, we get tired of paying for people who do not want to work or come here illegally expecting a handout.

So, yes America, there is a Santa Claus and he is bringing with him a world that is no longer asleep. Let us all go boldly. It may not always feel like it but we ARE winning. God is on our side.
